The Layers of the Rainforest

What I should already know

- The name and location of the seven continents.
- To find places using a globe or atlas.
- Know some hot and cold places in the world e.g. The North and South Pole.

What will I know by the end of the unit

- Rainforests are tropical forests which are located around the Equator (a line around the centre of the Earth) and in between the tropic of Cancer and Capricorn.
- There are four layers in a rainforest (see image).
- The climate of a rainforest is very hot and wet (this is called humid).
- 50% of the world's plants and animals live in rainforests.
- The Amazon rainforest in South America is the largest rainforest in the world.
- Deforestation is causing huge problems to our environment – the main problems are the loss of animal habitats and trees which give us oxygen.

Key Vocabulary

Rainforest – A dense forest with high levels of rainfall, normally found in tropical areas.

Equator – Imaginary line through the middle of the Earth.

Tropic of Cancer and Capricorn – Imaginary lines north and south of the Equator. Most rainforests can be found between these two lines.

Forest floor – The bottom layer of the rainforest. There is very little light here.

Understory – The warm, damp layer under the canopy.

Canopy – Thick layer of trees form a canopy / roof over the lower layers. Most animals can be found here.

Emergent layer – The top most layer of the rainforest, trees here are huge and emerge above the canopy layer.

Deforestation – The action of clearing a wide area of trees.

Habitat – The natural home or environment of an animal.
